Governor Wison volced for the first idea as contained in the Republican as well as the Progressive platform, declaring that it would mean "a postpone-ment of tariff legislation." He turned early in his speech to the pure food question and said:

Everybody now suspects, and the suspicion is based upon a great many facts that can be established by proof, that these pure food laws are not lived up to, that the inspection is not always what it ought to be, and that a great many things are permitted to be done which nullify the pure food laws.

Benzoste of Soda Case.

I suppose that most of you know that a great controversy arose because Dr. Wiley, who was in charge of the pure food administration, objected to the use of benzoate of soda in certain things that were sold to you, particularly in cans, for food. Not a very nice thing occurred. The gentlemen who wanted to use benzoate of soda persuaded the President, Mr. Roosevelt, that this was a sclentific question and, therefore, he ought to have a board of chemists to determine it. Warns People Against Experts.

I want to warn the people of this country to beware of commissions of experts. I have lived with experts all my life, and I know that experts don't see anything except what is under their microscope—under their eye. They don't even perceive what is under their noise, and an expert feels in honor bound to confine himself to the particular question which you have asked him.

Suppose you wanted to settle the liquor question by asking a body of experts whether alcohol was poison or not. I believe they would have to tell you that it isn't poison.

But does that settle the liquor question? There are a great many things that you can take into your stomach that are not poison that will make you creasy.
